How to get views like this from your driving seat

If you fancy heading out to the countryside for a drive, Leana Kell of motors.co.uk has some suggestions

OUR choice of drives is guaranteed to put the zing back into your motoring, providing a diverse choice of countryside and scenery which is arguably the best in the UK.

And the great thing about driving is you don't have to worry about the British weather, but can take to the road at any time of the day while in the comfort of your motor.

So why not take a look at motors.co.uk's top five recommended drives?

● York, a round-trip from vale to moor, approximately 104 miles.

The North Yorkshire Moors is home to some of the most dramatic scenery in Britain.

Combining the rugged moorland with dramatic coastline, the moors offer a multitude of pretty villages and countryside.

Beginning in York, take the A64 Malton Road towards Malton then Pickering.

From Pickering, take the A169 and look for the turn off to Goathland, well known as "Heartbeat country".

From Goathland, follow the road back to Pickering and take the A170 towards Hutton-Le-Hole, a charming village where you can visit the Ryedale Folk Museum.

From here, bear left then right on to Gill Lane before arriving at the popular village of Rosedale, home of Rosedale Abbey.

From Rosedale, head back on to the A170, then join the A169 at Malton before taking the A64 back into York.

● Portrush to Belfast, approximately 75 miles.

The drive from Portrush to Belfast, along the Antrim coast, is one of the most spectacular drives in Northern Ireland, and not one to be missed.

Starting in Portrush, the drive begins along the A2 heading to Bushmills, which houses the first legal drinking distillery in the world.

From Bushmills, follow the signs for the Giant's Causeway, a World Heritage Site featuring an extraordinary natural rock formation which sits at the foot of steep cliffs, and stretches out into the sea.

From the Giant's

Causeway, turn left as you exit, rejoin the A2 and then turn left towards Ballycastle, a lovely harbour town – and a good place to take a break for lunch, or even stay overnight, if time permits.

From Ballycastle, the A2 goes all the way along the east coast to Larne, where you can either carry on into Belfast or take the inland route via Ballymena, and take advantage of the nine Glens of Antrim, a designated area of outstanding natural beauty.

● The Ring of Kerry, approximately 110 miles.

One of the most beautiful and scenic drives within Ireland, the Ring of Kerry takes you along the west coast of Ireland through dramatic coastal scenery and the Killarney National Park.

Start the drive in Killarney, a lively tourist town with plenty of accommodation and entertainment options.

Car drivers are also recommended to drive the Ring of Kerry in a clockwise direction, to avoid getting stuck behind tour coaches who drive anti-clockwise, as the roads can be very narrow in places.

Begin the drive by heading south from Killarney along the N71 towards Kenmare, passing Lough Leane and the 19th-century Muckross House and Muckross Abbey, with views over Muckross Lake.

From Kenmare take the N70 to Sneem, a beautiful Kerry village then continue on to the market town of Caherdaniel.

From here, the N70 takes you towards the south side of Dingle Bay, one of the most scenic stretches of the route.

Complete the drive by stopping off at Glenbeigh and visiting the Kerry Bog Village Museum before continuing on through Killorglin and back to Killarney.
